But the biggest reason that most people never try is simple - they are terrified of failure. I was no different as I mentioned. I have gone through all the phases that most go through before getting into their own business, but being a OTR truck driver, I was gone weeks at a time. I still loved what I was doing, but I had been married now for several years, and we had two children with a third on the way. I missed my family when I was gone, and it was hard on my wife as well. Then that little voice in my head came back and whispered, "Open your own business." This time I was in a position to listen and listen I did. When I look at the faces of my family and know without a doubt that running my own Freight/Trucking Broker Business was the best decision I ever made. I make my own hours, work right from home, and never miss any of those important life moments. There is so much opportunity out there for others just like me. I could work 24 hours a day if I really wanted to. I started out with just myself and my wife in the office, and now the wife is "retired," and we have 22 full-time employees in various positions. Starting out on my own took a lot of guts and was a long and winding path full of trial and error. I wish I had of been able to read a book like this when I was just getting up and running.
